Abstract: Through Pope Benedict XVI's motu proprio Summorum Pontificum of July 7, 2007, the universal law for use of the 1962 liturgical books entered into force, but under certain conditions. Bishops received the unrestricted right to use the Pontificale Romanum of 1961/62 in the celebration of marriage. Nevertheless, the use of the Rituale Romanum of 1952 by priests or deacons when assisting at marriages required the permission of the parson or rector of the church hosting the ceremony. In addition, members of the clergy whose communities received the special permission necessary from the Apostolic See or the local Ordinary could also participate as qualified witnesses in a marriage ceremony celebrated according to the earlier rites. However, since July 16, 2021, after the issuance of the motu proprio Traditionis custodes, celebrating a marriage according to the books of 1962 is only possible in personal parishes with the permission of the diocesan bishop. The local Ordinary can also authorise priests of communities that have the special right to celebrate the earlier rites to celebrate such marriages. During the celebration of marriage according to the books of 1962, the current Code's discipline should be maintained, providing it does not violate the shape of the rites contained in these books.

Keywords: marriage, liturgy of 1962, Second Vatican Council, Rituale Romanum of 1952, Summorum Pontificum, Traditionis custodes

Streszczenie: Na mocy motu proprio Summorum Pontificum papieża Benedykta XVI z 7 lipca 2007 r. zostało wprowadzone powszechnie prawo do używania ksiąg z 1962 r. pod określonymi warunkami. Biskupi otrzymali upoważnienie do celebracji małżeństwa według Pontificale Romanum z 1961/62 r. Natomiast użycie Rituale Romanum z 1952 r. przez prezbiterów lub diakonów do asystowania przy zawarciu małżeństwa wymagało zezwolenia proboszcza lub rektora kościoła. Ponadto przy zawarciu małżeństwa według wcześniejszych obrzędów jako świadkowie kwalifikowani uczestniczyli także duchowni, których wspólnoty otrzymały prawo specjalne od Stolicy Apostolskiej lub ordynariusza miejsca. Natomiast od 16 lipca 2021 r., po wydaniu motu proprio Traditionis custodes papieża Franciszka, celebracja małżeństwa według ksiąg z 1962 r. możliwa jest jedynie w parafiach personalnych. Dokonuje się to za zezwoleniem biskupa diecezjalnego. Ordynariusz miejsca może zezwolić na to także kapłanom wspólnot, które posiadają prawo specjalne do celebracji wcześniejszych obrzędów. Podczas celebracji małżeństwa według ksiąg z 1962 r. należy zachować obecną dyscyplinę kodeksową, jeśli nie narusza ona kształtu obrzędów zawartych w tych księgach.

Introduction

This study is a continuation of the topic undertaken in the article entitled: „The ecclesiastical discipline of the celebration of marriage according to the books of the Roman Rite of 1962 after the Second Vatican Council in 1965-2007”. The article presented the reform and characterization of the marriage rites according to the Rituale Romanum of 1952 and the other books that also were in force in 1962 after Vaticanum II in the sui iuris Latin Church. An attempt was made to specify the legal basis of the permissions issued for the celebration of these rites, which has taken place since 1988 following the publication of the motu proprio Ecclesia Dei adficta of Pope John Paul II and the establishment of the Pontifical Commission Ecclesia Dei. The communities that received the right to celebrate these rites were also described.

This second elaboration on the subject will investigate the legal regulations of the celebration of the liturgy of marriage since 2007, i.e. since the publication Pope Benedict XVI's motu proprio Summorum Pontificum. At this point, the universal law for the use of the liturgical books of 1962 as the extraordinary form of the Roman Rite was introduced. As a result, marriage celebrations utilising the Mass according to these rites began to be held in many places. New communities, including personal parishes, which held the special right to use these books were also established.

However, the situation changed with the publication of Pope Francis's apostolic letter motu proprio Traditionis custodes in 2021. Under the new restrictive regulations of the pontifical law and the Responsa ad dubia of the Congregation for Divine Worship and the Discipline of the Sacraments of 2021, the use of the Rituale Romanum of 1952 has been significantly limited. These documents have subsequently caused tension among the faithful attached to the earlier rites.

In this article, in addition to showing the ecclesiastical discipline of the celebration of marriage according to the books of 1962 in light of these papal documents, an attempt will be made to verify the relationship of the rules contained in these books with the current discipline of the Code of Canon Law of 1983. It will also be important to indicate the current rules of the celebration of marriage according to the earlier Roman Ritual, in light of the motu proprio Traditionis custodes. The need for this study was realised following the changes in the ecclesiastical discipline of the discussed matter. Therefore, it will be helpful mainly for the Ordinaries and parish priests.

1.1. The universal law of the motu proprio Summorum Pontificum

As was already noted in the introduction, the year 2007 was an important and groundbreaking one for the Church's discipline of the celebrating the Sacrament of Marriage according to the books of 1962<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> It should be noted that these are not only the books published in 1962, but also the books that are current in the typical 1962 edition. Therefore, they could have been published earlier.

after the Second Vatican Council (1962-1965). This significance was related to the publication of Pope Benedict XVI's apostolic letter Summorum Pontificum, pursuant to which the 1962 liturgy was constituted as the forma extraordinaria Ritus Romani<sup>2</sup>. It was issued on July 7, 2007, and entered into force on September 14, 2007. Through this general decree, the Roman Pontiff authorised the use of the 1962 Missale Romanum on the basis of universal law, thereby strengthening the faithful's right to participate in the liturgy of the Mass according to the rites of this Missal<sup>3</sup>. With the promulgation of this apostolic letter, the earlier principles contained in the letter Quattuor abhinc

At this point, the instruction Universae Ecclesiae of April 30, 2011, issued by the Pontifical Commission Ecclesia Dei, became an important explanatory document<sup>5</sup>. Moreover, it is pertinent for the discussed topic that, for the first time in the universal law of the Latin Church after Vaticanum II, the possibility of the unrestricted use of the Pontificale Romanum of 1961/62 in the celebration of marriage was formally articulated. The current 1962 Caeremoniale Episcoporum should therefore also be taken into account<sup>6</sup>. However, the use of the Rituale Romanum (according to the Titulus VIII of this

In the motu proprio Summorum Pontificum, Pope Benedict XVI decided that a parish priest, after careful consideration of all circumstances, could permit (licentiam concedere potest) the usage of the Rituale Romanum of 1952 in the celebration of marriage, if the good of souls required it<sup>8</sup>. It should be assumed that the necessary permission was issued by the spouse's personal parish priest who assisted at the marriage (or delegated another priest) or the territorial parish priest of the place where the marriage is being contracted (CIC/83<sup>9</sup>, c. 1109-1110). Such permission could also be given by the Ordinary by virtue of the executive power (CIC/83, c. 134, 136, 139 § 2). In a response made to the faithful of Brazil of July 18, 2009, the Pontifical Commission Ecclesia Dei also confirmed the possibility of celebration of marriage with the permission of the parish priest according to the norm of the papal motu proprio<sup>10</sup>. It was then further detailed in the 2011 instruction Universae Ecclesiae. The Pontifical Commission Ecclesia Dei noted that it was allowed to use the Rituale Romanum when contracting a marriage according to the usus antiquior, while observing the indications of this liturgical book<sup>11</sup>. This important principle (preserving the rites of the 1962 books – rubrics and nigrics) will be extensively discussed in the final point of this article.

In the papal motu proprio, two conditions were set for granting permission to use the earlier Roman Ritual: careful consideration of all circumstances (omnibus bene perpensis) and the good of souls resulting from the permission (bono animarum id suadente) (cf. CIC/83, c. 1752). Therefore, parish priests had some freedom in making their decision after assessing the request for the celebration of marriage in the earlier form of the Roman Rite. When making their decision, the parson had to remember that the motu proprio Summorum Pontificum was issued for the good of the faithful. On the other hand, he had to take into account the ecclesiastical aspects, e.g. ecclesial unity (CIC/83, c. 205, 209 § 1, 837, 843 § 1). It was also required that these faithful should not deny the validity and legitimacy of the liturgy reformed after Vaticanum II<sup>12</sup>. The parish priest had to demonstrate appropriate prudentia pastoralis. Thus, through the papal law, parish priests – by virtue of their office – were given the authority to issue the permission necessary to use the 1952 Rituale Romanum for the celebration of marriage<sup>13</sup>. This is a function specifically entrusted to the parish priest (CIC/83, c. 530 no. 4)<sup>14</sup>.

It should also be noted that Pope Benedict XVI, in the motu proprio Summorum Pontificum, introduced a norm regarding the special circumstances and occasions on which parish priests ought to have allowed the celebration of the Holy Mass with additional ceremonies. Among them, the circumstance of getting married was mentioned<sup>15</sup>. The Universae Ecclesiae instruction, when referring to this principle, mentioned sanctuaries and places of pilgrimage where these ceremonies could take place if there was a competent priest (sacerdos idoneus)<sup>16</sup>.

It should be added that, according to the motu proprio Summorum Pontificum, in churches not of a conventional or parish character, permission in the above-described situations was issued by the rector of the church (CIC/83, c. 561-562)<sup>17</sup>.

The local Ordinaries – as has already been mentioned – also issued permissions for the celebration of marriages according to the 1962 books. They usually did so by establishing personal parishes under the motu proprio Summorum Pontificum (CIC/83, c. 518)<sup>18</sup>. An example of a personal parish, where priests could assist at a marriage according to these books, is the parish of the Holy Family, located in Vancouver, Canada, which was erected in 2008, as well as the parish of Saint Stanislaus in Manchester, England, which was erected in 2016<sup>19</sup>.

The issued regulations did not take into account the possibility of using national rituals, which were discussed in more detail in the previous article. In practice, however, they were used and the Apostolic See did not oppose them<sup>22</sup>. The possibility of using these rituals when contracting a marriage, is supported by the fact that – as was already noted in the previous study – these rituals complement and complete the marriage rites contained in the Rituale Romanum of 1952. In practice, local Ordinaries permitted their usage. An example of this is the Ministry of the Faithful of the Latin Tradition in Warsaw, where the use of the Collectio Rituum of 1963 was pronounced<sup>23</sup>. In addition, the Pontifical Commission Ecclesia Dei itself authorised the Priestly Fraternity of Saint Peter in 2017 to use the Latin-French marriage rites contained in the Ritual for Montreal which were in force in 1962<sup>24</sup>.

The last issue regarding the general law of the celebration of marriage according to the 1962 books in the years 2007-2021 is the addition of the De Nuptiis preface. Through the Quo magis decree of February 22, 2020, the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith introduced seven new ad libitum prefices to the Missale Romanum of 1962. The decree was in forma communi approved by Pope Francis on December 5, 2019<sup>25</sup>. It had been already announced by Pope Benedict XVI in the July 7, 2007 letter Con grande fiducia and the aforementioned instruction Universae Ecclesiae<sup>26</sup>. In the explanatory Note of the Quo Magis decree of March 25, 2020, special attention was paid to the De Nuptiis preface. It was emphasised that this preface, with the solemn blessing of the spouses in the Pro Sponsis Masses, had been placed – with minor changes – in the ancient Sacramentaries, such as Gelasianum Vetus and Sacramentarium Gregorianum. It was noted that this ancient preface, already existing in the ordinary form of the Roman Rite, can now also be used in the extraordinary form of the Roman Rite<sup>27</sup>.

1.2. The special right of the communities

In the years 2007-2021, other communities also received the right to use the Rituale Romanum of 1952 during the contracting of marriage. The first mention should be given to the Institute of Christ the King Sovereign Priest, which was erected by the Pontifical Commission Ecclesia Dei on October 7, 2008, as a clerical society of apostolic life under the pontifical right. The decree of this community's founding stated that the liturgy would be celebrated in the extraordinary form of the Roman Rite (cultus liturgici secundum formam extraordinariam Ritus Romani), which would be the charism of the Institute<sup>28</sup>. However, it is difficult to obtain detailed data on the current rules of this community's usage of the 1962 books, due to the unavailability of additional documents.

Other communities that can be mentioned are those that were allowed to celebrate the Sacrament of Marriage according to the Rituale Romanum of 1952, via the special law. An example of such a community is the Missionaries of Saint John the Baptist, erected on September 5, 2019, by Bishop Roger J. Foys – Ordinary of the Diocese of Covington, in the USA as a public association of the faithful. The decree of erection articulated the possibility of celebrating the liturgy according to the extraordinary form of the Roman Rite<sup>29</sup>.

In taking up the matter of ecclesiastical discipline regarding the celebration of marriage according to the books of 1962 after Vaticanum II, one should mention the regulations issued for the Society of Saint Pius X (SSPX), which has not yet achieved a regulated canonical status. The Pontifical Commission Ecclesia Dei sent a letter to the presidents of the bishops' conferences on March 27, 2017, that authorised the local Ordinaries to delegate priests of this community to assist at marriages. The letter was approved by Pope Francis in forma communi on March 24, 2017. This step was taken by the Apostolic See to prevent the faithful from getting married without the canonical form required for the validity of the marriage (CIC/83, c. 1108-1111). A broader description of this issue would exceed the scope of this article. It has been extensively described in other studies, including the Ius Matrimoniale journal<sup>30</sup>.

2. The celebration of marriage since 2021

2.1. The universal law of the motu proprio Traditionis custodes

On July 16, 2021, Pope Francis issued the apostolic letter motu proprio Traditionis custodes, through which he abolished (sono abrogate) those existing documents and regulations regarding the liturgy before the 1970 reform which were contrary to the document (CIC/83, c. 20). As a result, the liturgy according to the books reformed after the Second Vatican Council became the unique expression (l'unica espressione) of the Roman Rite<sup>31</sup>. In addition, the 1962 rites, including the Sacrament of Marriage, ceased to be the extraordinary form of the Roman Rite. Therefore, a question arose regarding future possibilities of using the Rituale Romanum of 1952 during the celebration of marriage. In the papal motu proprio, the celebration of other sacraments was not mentioned; rather, only the Holy Mass. However, the reading of the papal law, and taking into account the purpose, circumstances, and thoughts of the legislator, indicated that the further using of the Roman Ritual was no longer possible (CIC/83, c. 17). So a dubium emerged, which was then presented to the Apostolic See.

A few months later, the mentioned question was clarified in the Responsa ad dubia issued by the Congregation for Divine Worship and the Discipline of the Sacraments on December 4, 2021. The Responses, with the letter of the prefect of the Dicastery, were in forma communi approved by Pope Francis on November 18, 2021<sup>32</sup>. It is significant that the Congregation answered the question regarding the possibility of using the earlier Roman Ritual in a negative way, referring to the first and eighth point of the motu proprio Traditionis custodes. The Congregation for Divine Worship and the Discipline of the Sacraments has clarified that the diocesan bishop is authorised to permit the usage of the 1952 Rituale Romanum only in canonically erected personal parishes where the liturgy according to the 1962 Missale Romanum is celebrated. In addition, it was noted that the diocesan bishop can not authorise the usage of the Pontificale Romanum (CIC/83, c. 134)<sup>33</sup>. As a result,

(...) Questa Congregazione, esercitando, per la materia di sua competenza, l’autorità della Santa Sede (cf. Traditionis custodes, n. 7), ritiene che, volendo progredire nella direzione indicata dal Motu proprio, non si debba concedere la licenza di usare il Rituale Romanum e il Pontificale Romanum precedenti alla riforma liturgica, libri liturgici che, come tutte le norme, le istruzioni, le concessioni e le consuetudini precedenti, sono stati abrogati (cf. Traditionis

It seems, however, that the diocesan bishop could, in a specific case, and for a just and rational reason, grant a dispensation, thus allowing the celebration of a marriage according to the earlier Roman Ritual outside a personal parish. The act of granting the dispensation in this matter was not reserved for the Apostolic See (CIC/83, c. 87 § 1, 90). ## 2.2. The special right of the communities

After the publication of the above-mentioned motu proprio Traditionis custodes and Responsa ad dubia of 2021, another dubium concerning the communities under the pontifical right erected by the Pontifical Commission Ecclesia Dei appeared. The doubt concerned communities such as the Priestly Fraternity of Saint Peter, the Personal Apostolic Administration of Saint John Mary Vianney, the Institute of the Good Shepherd, the Institute of Christ the King Sovereign Priest, and the other communities which have been described in this article and the previous article of the study. They have the right to celebrate the Sacrament of Marriage according to the Rituale Romanum of 1952. This right has been articulated in their own Constitutions, statutes, or decrees of erection on the basis of – so to speak – their own rite. According to the intention of the code legislator, if it has not been expressly mentioned in the text, then this right has not been abrogated by the norms of the general law motu proprio Traditionis custodes (CIC/83, c. 20)<sup>36</sup>.

The abovementioned point was confirmed by Pope Francis through the issuance of the decree addressed to the Priestly Fraternity of Saint Peter on February 11, 2022. He confirmed that the priests of this community may celebrate the liturgy according to the 1962 books and che nel momento in cui dovesse essere disponibile un altro luogo, tale licenza sarà ritirata”.

assist at marriages according to the 1952 Rituale Romanum. He noted, however, that the use of these books outside of the community's own churches and oratories (except for the private celebration of Mass) is only allowed with the permission of the local Ordinary (cf. CIC/83, c. 837)<sup>37</sup>. The contracting of a marriage is in and of itself a public act, not a private celebration. Therefore, the Pope only mentioned the celebration of Mass in a private way, which should be more precisely defined as the missa sine populo, as emphasised in the instruction De musica sacra of the Sacred Congregation of Rites of 1958<sup>38</sup>. In light of this decree, other communities which also hold the special right in this matter can continue to use it under certain conditions. The liturgy of 1962 constitutes the heritage (patrimonium) of these communities, which is connected with their right to autonomy of life (CIC/83, c. 586-587)<sup>39</sup>. Therefore, if the local Ordinary has not granted permanent permission to these priests to use the Rituale Romanum, the procedure for obtaining permission according to can. 1071 § 1 CIC/83 should (in any case) be followed. It is worth noting that in the case of the Priestly Fraternity of Saint Peter (and similarly to other communities of this type), permission is issued not only by the diocesan bishop, but also by the local Ordinary through his executive power. Therefore, the vicar general and the episcopal vicar (if he has such competence) are also able to issue them (CIC/83, c. 134, 475-476, 479).

See BENEDICTUS XVI, Litterae Apostolicae Summorum Pontificum, no. 2, 4; D. PIETRAS, Nadzwyczajna forma..., p. 202. It is worth adding that the faithful can join the sine populo Mass by their own initiative.

The issue of the celebration of marriage according to the above-mentioned rituals of the Latin rites should also be described in this study. It seems that the use of other books of the Latin rites is no longer possible, as the universal law contained in the motu proprio Summorum Pontificum (as well as in the instruction Universae Ecclesiae) has been abolished, and the motu proprio Traditionis custodes only mentions the 1962 Missale Romanum of Pope John XXIII. The exceptions, however, will be communities or particular Churches that have a special right to celebrate according to the earlier books of their own rite which, by virtue of particular law, have also not been abolished because it was not mentioned in the papal motu proprio (CIC/83, c. 20)<sup>40</sup>.

It should also be noted that the rules expressed in the already described letter of the Pontifical Commission Ecclesia Dei of March 27, 2017, which made it possible to delegate SSPX priests to assist at marriages, have not been abolished<sup>41</sup>. These priests may still receive the required delegation from the local Ordinaries (CIC/83, c. 1108-1111). It should be noted, however, that a situation consequently arose in which the canonically irregular priests of the SSPX may be authorised under common law to use the Rituale Romanum of 1952 in the contracting of marriage<sup>42</sup>. However, the legislator does not provide such a possibility to those canonically – regular priests who are not members of communities that hold the special right to use the books of 1962.

3. The Code of Canon Law of 1983 and the celebration of marriage according to the books of 1962

Since 2007, when it became possible to celebrate marriages according to the books of 1962 under a common law (under certain conditions), questions have arisen concerning the current Code's discipline. And due to the point that the faithful attached to the Roman liturgy of 1962 are members of the Latin Church sui iuris, they do not constitute another Catholic Church sui iuris (CIC/83, c. 846 § 2)<sup>43</sup>. Therefore, during celebrations of the liturgy of the Mass and marriage according to the Missale Romanum, Rituale Romanum, Collectio Rituum and Pontificale Romanum that were in force in 1962, the norms of the 1983 Code of Canon Law should be observed (CIC/83, c. 1) unless they are incompatible with the rubrics of these books, which determine the shape and structure of the liturgy (cf. CIC/83, c. 2, 6). Therefore, the current ecclesiastical discipline cannot violate the rites (rubrics and nigrics) that have been specified in the books of the earlier form of the Roman Rite (e.g. in the praenotanda) (CIC/83, c. 846 § 1, 1119; cf. CIC/17<sup>44</sup>, c. 733 § 1). Moreover, in the case of doubt, it seems that the norm contained in the liturgical book of 1962 prevails, especially if it is connected with the celebrated liturgy. The liturgy of 1962 has to maintain its form. This important principle, based on the special law contained in the motu proprio Summorum Pontificum, was further specified in the aforementioned instruction Universae Ecclesiae. It became very helpful in practice<sup>45</sup>. It can be assumed that this principle works in the spirit of can. 20 CIC/83, which states that common law does not abolish a special law. And although this instruction was abolished by Pope Francis through the motu proprio Traditionis custodes<sup>46</sup>, it seems justified to apply this rule when using the 1962 books. There is often a conflict between the norms contained in these books and the current ecclesiastical discipline. Therefore, the norms determining the shape of this liturgy should be distinguished from the current disciplinary norms that apply to the faithful participating in this liturgy, because these rules do not affect the shape of this liturgy.

In light of the abovementioned principle, the current Code's disciplinary norms should be observed when preparing the engaged couple for marriage according to the 1962 rites. Therefore, it is necessary to observe the activities preceding the marriage (CIC/83, c. 1063-1072; cf. CIC/17, c. 1019-1034)<sup>47</sup>, the rules regarding matrimonial impediments, and the situations in which the permission of the Ordinary is required (CIC/83, c. 1071, 1073-1094). Thus, the division into impudent impediments (impedimentis impudentibus) and diriment impediments (impedimentis dirimentibus) no longer applies (cf. CIC/17, c. 1058-1080)<sup>48</sup>. According to the books of 1962, Catholics getting married are no longer affected by the impediment of spiritual kinship that existed between the baptised, and the baptising person, and their godparents (CIC/17, c. 1079). However, these faithful are affected by other current norms of matrimonial law which concern such issues as, for example, mixed marriages (CIC/83, c. 1124-1129; cf. CIC/17, c. 1060). As a result, the Catholic party is no longer required to make an effort to convert the non-Catholic party, as was required by the previous code legislator (CIC/83, c. 1125; CIC/17, c. 1062)<sup>49</sup>.

It should also be concluded that the liturgy of matrimony in the old form, with the solemn blessing, may take place – whereas earlier, it had been forbidden (cf. CIC/17, c. 1108 § 1-2)<sup>50</sup>. Currently, it is prohibited to celebrate a marriage only on Good Friday and Holy Saturday<sup>51</sup>. Therefore, there is no need for the local Ordinary to offer a dispensation from the penitential period, which was required for the marriage ceremony with the solemn blessing by the previous code legislator (cf. CIC/17, c. 1108 § 3)<sup>52</sup>. In addition, it seems that the parish priest, when taking into account the circumstances, may decide to celebrate a marriage without a Mass<sup>53</sup>. Likewise, the current penitential discipline should be observed (CIC/83, c. 1249-1253; cf. CIC/17, c. 1250-1254)<sup>54</sup> and, if necessary, the needed dispensation should be given (CIC/83, c. 90-91, 1245).

It is also possible that the parson could, in light of the current discipline and after considering the circumstances and becoming familiar with the situation of the engaged couple, decide to give the solemn blessing to a woman remarrying (cf. CIC/17, c. 1101 § 1, 1143)<sup>55</sup>. Another issue concerns the marriage between a Catholic and a baptised non-Catholic party. Under the norms of the previous Code of Canon Law, the solemn blessing was not given in such a situation. The local Ordinary could, however, grant a dispensation for the use of sacred rites when marrying a non-Catholic, but always without the Holy Mass (cf. CIC/17, c. 1102 § 2)<sup>56</sup>. Currently, a marriage between a Catholic and a baptised non-Catholic may be celebrated during Mass, but doing so requires the permission of the local Ordinary. Alternatively, a marriage between a Catholic and a non-Christian (or a catechumen) must always take place outside of the Mass<sup>57</sup>. It seems, therefore, that even in the 1962 rites, a marriage between a Catholic and a baptised non-Catholic could be celebrated (CIC/83, c. 1124-1129) with a solemn blessing at the Mass. As well, as the rites of marriage are integrally connected with the Mass, the permission of the local Ordinary for the celebration of the Mass would have to be obtained. Regarding the admission of a baptised non-Catholic to Holy Communion, the principles of the communicatio in sacris should be observed (CIC/83, c. 844). However, it can be assumed that, in this situation, after the contracting of marriage between a Catholic and a non-Christian, the prayers over the spouses should be used without the solemn blessing (CIC/83, c. 1086)<sup>58</sup>.

The current ecclesiastical discipline must be applied with regard to the place where a marriage is celebrated. Currently, the legislator requires that a marriage must be celebrated in the fiancé's or fiancée's parish, or elsewhere with the permission of their own Ordinary or parish priest (CIC/83, c. 1115)<sup>59</sup>. Therefore, the rule that the bride's parish priest should bless the marriage is no longer valid (CIC/17, c. 1097 § 2)<sup>60</sup>. A marriage between Catholics is usually celebrated in the parish church, and in another church or chapel with the permission of the local Ordinary or parson (CIC/83, c. 1118 § 1; cf. CIC/17, c. 1109 § 1-2)<sup>61</sup>. Under the current code law, the local Ordinary may allow a marriage to take place in another appropriate setting (CIC/83, c. 1118 § 2)<sup>62</sup>. Furthermore, a conference of bishops, when taking into account the pastoral needs of the nation, may decide that the sacrament itself may be performed in a house<sup>63</sup>. Alternatively, a marriage between a Catholic and a non-baptised party may be celebrated in a church or another appropriate place, according to the 1962 liturgical books (CIC/83, c. 1118 § 3). The more restrictive norm of the previous Code, according to which the marriage between a Catholic and a non-Catholic was (as a rule) to be contracted outside the church, is no longer in force, unless the local Ordinary has granted a dispensation (CIC/17, c. 1109 § 3)<sup>64</sup>.

The contracting of a marriage according to the 1962 rites can also be celebrated by a deacon, which was already a possibility according to the motu proprio Sacrum diaconatus ordinem of Pope Paul VI of 1967 (cf. CIC/17, c. 1094-1096; CIC/83, c. 1108, 1111)<sup>65</sup>. However, it seems that a layman should not do this, although according to the current church discipline, he can be delegated (CIC/83, c. 1112)<sup>66</sup>. The texts in the 1952 Rituale Romanum were arranged in such a way that they could be read by a presbyter. Therefore, there is no possibility to hold a marriage ceremony before a delegated layman, as was done in the second edition of the renewed Ritual (Caput 3). In addition, the presence of a priest is now required for the validity of a marriage between a Catholic and a non-Catholic of the Eastern Rite (CIC/83, c. 1127 § 1)<sup>67</sup>. It is also worth mentioning that it is not possible to give spouses Holy Communion under both species (CIC/17, c. 852; cf. CIC/83, c. 925). According to the Collectio Rituum for Poland, however, it is recommended to give them Holy Communion from the bread consecrated at this Mass, i.e. from the currently present Sacrifice of Christ<sup>68</sup>. At the end of these undertaken analyses, it is worth noting that, due to the changed discipline related to marriage, it has become problematic to publish earlier catechisms and other studies that do not annotate these changes<sup>70</sup>. As a result, there is a risk of misleading the faithful attached to the old liturgical forms, as they have become acquainted with an outdated ecclesiastical discipline. Therefore, when publishing old studies, the text should be updated, or appropriate comments should be made.

Conclusions

This article has examined the discipline related to the celebration of marriage since the issuance of the papal motu proprio Summorum

Pontificum in 2007. Under this law, bishops could freely use the Pontificale Romanum of 1961/62 when assisting at marriage, and erect personal parishes for the extraordinary form of the Roman Rite. The use of the Rituale Romanum from 1952 was allowed when said with the permission of parish priests and the rectors of the church. In addition, the rituals of the religious rites and other territorial rites of the Latin Church sui iuris could be used. Multilingual national rituals which were in force in 1962 were also used. The new De Nuptiis preface, published by the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith in 2020, could also be used. Additionally, new structures were erected which were equipped with the special right to celebrate marriage according to the Roman Ritual. Among these communities is the Institute of Christ the King Sovereign Priest, which was erected as a society of apostolic life under the pontifical right in 2008. In addition, since 2017, local Ordinaries have been able to delegate the SSPX clergy to assist at marriages.

After the publication of the papal motu proprio Traditionis custodes in 2021, the use of the 1952 Rituale Romanum was limited to the celebration of marriage in personal parishes erected for the forma extraordinaria. The permission of the diocesan bishop acts as the circumstance providing for the possibility of this celebration to occur. In addition, Pope Francis, when issuing the decree for the Priestly Fraternity of Saint Peter in 2022, confirmed the right to use these rites in communities that have their own right to use the books of 1962. Likewise, particular Churches and religious communities still have a particular or special right to use the ancient rites. The analyses also show that the motu proprio Traditionis custodes did not abolish the right to delegate SSPX priests to assist at marriages.

The study has also shown that when celebrating the liturgy of marriage according to the 1962 books, the shape of the rites contained therein should be preserved, but the discipline of the Code of Canon Law of 1983 should also be applied. In practice, this is often difficult to implement, because there can be difficulty in distinguishing a disciplinary norm from a purely liturgical one. Consequently, the current pre-marriage procedures (e.g. announcements), the rules regarding matrimonial impediments, and the situations in which the permission of the Ordinary is required must be observed. The current discipline regarding mixed marriages, as well as the place and time of marriage, should also be considered. The analyses have also shown that a deacon can assist at marriage. Furthermore, a lay person who has the delegation to assist in the sacrament should not use the Rituale Romanum of 1952. It also seems that the parish priest, when taking into account the circumstances, may decide to celebrate the marriage without saying Mass and to give the solemn blessing to the wife at her remarriage. It can also be assumed that in the 1962 rites – after obtaining the permission of the local Ordinary – it is possible to celebrate a marriage between a Catholic and a baptised non-Catholic using the solemn blessing at the Mass. However, after a marriage between a Catholic and a non-Christian, without celebrating the Holy Mass, the prayers over the spouses should be used without the solemn blessing.
